The Cruel Knife!

The alarming increase in the number of deaths which occur as the result of a surgical operation is attracting general attention, and a strong sentiment against such methods of treatment is fast developing among the most intelligent classes. It seems that in almost every case for which the doctors' treatment is unsuccessful, the learned physicians decide at once that an operation must be performed, and the keen blade of the surgeon is recklessly resorted to.

Doctors are human, and of course are liable to make mistakes, but their mistakes are too fatal to be indulged in promiscuously, and as so many lives are sacrificed in this manner, it is but natural for the public to believe that half the operations are unnecessary, besides being a fearful risk to human life, even if successful.

It is a positive fact, however, that all operations are not necessary, and that a majority of them are absolutely undertaken without the slightest chance of success. The doctors have never been able to cure a blood disease, and a surgical operation is their only method of treating deep-seated cases, such as cancer and scrofulous affections. Aside from the great danger, an operation never did and never will cure cancer, as the disease never fails to return. Cancer is in the blood, and common sense teaches anyone that no disease can be cut from the blood.

Here is a case where the pain inflicted on a six-year-old boy was especially cruel, and after undergoing the tortures produced by the surgeon's knife he rapidly grew worse. Mr. J. N. Murdoch, the father of the boy, residing at 279 Snodgrass street, Dallas, Texas, writes: "When my son Will, was six years old, a small sore appeared on his lip, which did not yield to the usual treatment, but before long began to grow. It gave him a great deal of pain, and continued to spread. He was treated by several good doctors, who said he had cancer, and advised that an operation was necessary."

"After much reluctance, we consented, and they cut down to the jaw bone, which they scraped. The operation was a severe one, but I thought it was the only hope for my boy. Before a great while the cancer returned, and began to grow rapidly. We gave him many remedies without relief, and finally upon the advice of a friend, decided to try S.S.S. (Swift's Specific), and with the second bottle he began to improve. After twenty bottles had been taken, the cancer disappeared entirely and he was cured. The cure was a permanent one, for he is now seventeen years old, and has never had a sign of the dreadful disease to return."

S.S.S. is far ahead of all other blood remedies, because it is the only one which cures deep-seated obstinate blood diseases such as Cancer, Scrofula, Eczema, Catarrh, Rheumatism, etc. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed containing not a particle of mercury, potash, or other mineral ingredient, which are so injurious to the system. S.S.S. is sold by all druggists. Books on Cancer and Blood Diseases will be mailed free to any address by the Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Before submitting to the SSS knife, try SSS the only real blood remedy.

THEIR QUEER WAY.

ACTORS AND SINGERS AND THEIR REMARKS ON THE CRITIC.

Callous Indifference or Ignorance the Commonest Refuge of the Artistic Nature. Several Cases Cited by the Innocent Reporter.

"There are many amusing things about the artistic temperament," said the innocent reporter, "but you have to know the disposition in order to tell how funny they really are. You must know enough not to believe them at all ways and then through all your intercourse with the professionals there will flow an accompaniment of easy humor that gives acquaintance with these persons an added pleasure. One charming incident of this can always be found in their views of what the newspapers say about them. Mrs. James Brown Potter is the only woman I ever saw who talked frankly about that subject."

"So long as they don't ignore me," she said, "I don't care what they write. Let them say anything so long as they say it, but it would be horrible to be left alone."

"That was a very truthful statement of her own opinions and almost unparalleled in its frankness. Everybody knows that Mrs. Potter has never had very much to thank the newspapers for that was really pleasant, but she had plenty to be grateful for as long as she was willing they should print anything if it kept her in the public eye."

"Almost as genuine was a young American singer who came back here after she had made a debut and some little reputation in Europe. She was a pretty woman and she had a good voice, but she was unfortunate. Once she had a sore throat and another time she was out of condition for some other reason. At all events she was never in condition to do herself justice. So there was nothing pleasant that, even with the kindest intentions, the newspapers could say about the young woman. One night toward the close of the season she was in a grand tier box at the opera house. During one of the entr'actes she was walking about the foyer with a friend, and halted in front of the greenroom. 'What is that room?' her friend asked. 'Planting herself deliberately in front of the partly opened curtains, she said in a voice audible to every man in the room, 'Oh, that is the place they go to write, in the most disagreeable way they can, the most disagreeable things they can think of about you.' The younger singer was unjust, but she had no false vanity. She was willing to let it be known that she read what the newspapers said about her. Her more illustrious colleagues are not always so willing to admit that."

"I have heard Mlle. Calve protest that she never saw any newspaper, but the Paris Figaro, and declare that she really had not the slightest idea what New York papers wrote about her. She said this one day while waiting outside of Maurice Grau's office at the Metropolitan, and then turning suddenly to a reporter standing near her asked if he was the man that wrote she had signed a contract to give some concerts at $2,000 a night when she was really to receive $2,200. The man did not understand French, so Mlle. Calve's companion translated the question into English. The man replied that he represented another newspaper, and when she turned this into French for Mlle. Calve she mentioned the name of the newspaper from which she had translated the dreadfully erroneous paragraph which had led the public to believe that Mlle. Calve had consented to take $200 less than she was to get."

"Mme. Eames has an indicated indifference for what the newspapers say which is sometimes a little bit difficult to reconcile with her intimate knowledge of what they publish about her. Mme. Melba is also familiar with them, and she is a little less averse to having that fact known than Mme. Eames is. It is well known that Mme. Nordica takes her press clippings with her coffee, and she makes no bones of it. Jean de Reszke is a regular reader of what the newspapers have to say about him, and whatever he may think about it in reality, he never, but in one instance, took any notice of it. Plancon enjoys reading the agreeable things that are written about him and doesn't care who knows it. Only the women profess to be wholly ignorant of what the newspapers write."

"With the actresses the case is very much the same. The celebrated foreigners, according to their own accounts, are quite unacquainted with anything that the American press may write about them. Agnes Sorma said that she did not intend to read any of the criticisms of her work until she started home on the steamer. It didn't take a conversation of more than three minutes to show that she had a fairly accurate knowledge of everything that had been printed about her. It must have been some superior sort of clairvoyance that is possible only to the artistic temperament, for hadn't she said that none of them would be read until she had got on the steamer to go to Europe? Sarah Bernhardt has them all translated to her and accompanies the performance with more or less emphatic reflections on the intelligence of the writers who do not agree with her own ideas of what she does. It is said that the atmosphere of the Hoffman House was heavily charged with brimstone for several days after Mme. Sarah had the New York accounts of her performance of 'Magda' read aloud to her in English. When the American actors read unfavorable accounts of themselves, they are always able to tell how they came to be written. There is always some specific cause for everything unfavorable. Either they snubbed the writer accidentally or said something disagreeable about him to one of his friends. There is never any explanation beyond their bold truthfulness for the flattering notices that appear.—New York Sun.
